COURSE DESCRIPTION
This course is an introduction to the archaeological and historical study of Oregon and the surrounding area. By virtue of its location in the western hemisphere and proximity to the Bering Strait, the Pacific Northwest is an important area useful in learning about the first people to enter North America. Furthermore, the diversity of eco-scapes within Oregon offers useful insight into how humans adapt culturally, technologically, and spiritually to their environments. Finally, we will examine the roles the Lewis and Clark expedition and later, the Oregon Trail, played in the westward expansion of the United States of America. By looking at material remains, various ethnographies, and historical documents, this class will hope to better understand the various political, economic, and cultural lifestyles of the people who inhabited Oregon and the surrounding areas.

COURSE MATERIALS

• Oregon Archaeology
  By Aikens, Connolly and Jenkins, 2011

• Various articles and websites.

  In addition to the above text, you will also be reading various articles, viewing video clips, and exploring websites. You will find links to this material in the Weekly Lessons.

COURSE OUTCOMES
Upon completion of this course, students will have:

1. An understanding of the cultures, subsistence, and technologies of past peoples from an archaeological perspective.

2. An appreciation for the way in which the geology, ecology, topography, flora, and fauna helped shape cultural behaviors.

3. An ability to describe the archaeological sites that have made the Pacific Northwest an important location in which to study broad archaeological issues.

4. The ability to apply the knowledge discovered about the human past to issues of relevance in the present such as the evolution of gender roles, class, and power.

5. A better comprehension of the geologic history and features of Oregon.

COURSE STRUCTURE
Each week, you will be presented a lesson plan that will contain a lecture, readings, an assignment, and a quiz. There will also be additional materials that may include web videos or online resources.

Quizzes: Each quiz is worth 10 points and consists of multiple choice, matching, or fill in the blank questions. As this is an online course, the quizzes are timed. You will have 30 minutes once the quiz has been opened. Check below for due dates. If your quiz crashes, contact me ASAP and I can reset it. You get ONE reset so make sure that you are taking the quiz in a secure online environment.

Assignments: Each assignment is worth 10 points. The purpose of these assignments is to get you thinking about the materials presented in each lesson plan. I am looking for engagement with the subject materials, critical thinking skills, and good writing skills. Check below for due dates. *Note: Do not send assignments as attachments. Cut and paste the directly into the blackboard assignment link.

Exams: There are two essay exams for this class. Both of these tests ask you to answer two of three questions. Each answer should be between 1-2 pages (single-spaced) and show that you have absorbed the course material.
